

A second opinion on every ESG rating in ASEAN.

We rank all 52 companies twice — once on dated public evidence, once on the rating the market is already using — and report the gap, with a direction. It never says buy or sell. It says where it disagrees, on which dated sources, and what would change its mind.

WHAT IT FOUND — 52 COMPANIES, 4 QUADRANTS
RATED BEHIND THE EVIDENCE	RATING	EVIDENCE	GAP	SRC	MONEY
RHB Bank MY	18th	98th	+0.80	14	adequate
SM Prime PH	4th	67th	+0.63	13	adequate
OCBC SG	34th	92nd	+0.58	17	adequate
UOB SG	11th	57th	+0.46	10	weak
AND THE OTHER 48 — 3 OF THEM GETTING WORSE
Both agree					24
Improving, already rated for it					21
Flattered by an old score					2
Poorly rated, still slipping					1
Read the last column. UOB clears the ESG bar and fails the money read — earnings down 22.6%. We show both and blend neither. One combined score would have hidden it.

52 ASEAN companies, from one verified research basket	391 dated, sourced events behind the verdicts — 48 of 52 covered	S$0.079 AI cost per company per year — measured, not estimated	0 thresholds moved to produce that list — the bar was fixed in advance
--	---	--	---

What we are honest about: 86% of what a public search returns is written by the companies themselves, and we cap how far that can ever count — which is why this list is four names and not forty. The bar was written down before the evidence existed; the quadrant filled because we found better sources, not a smaller number. Every figure above is reproducible from the run id in the corner.